FEED: Advancements in feed efficiency play a key role in enabling the egg industry to reduce its environmental footprint.

Today's hens use a little over half the amount of feed to produce a dozen eggs.

- 78 million more hens
- 1.3 million more acres of corn
- 1.8 million more acres of soybeans

Using 1960 technology to produce today's supply of 77.8 billion eggs would have required.

Brought to you by America's Egg Farmers

For more information, please visit www.IncredibleEgg.org